

On average transport companies lose 3% of their revenue through "leakage."

Complex transport operations increase the chance that jobs are not captured accurately, not invoiced properly or just plain forgotten.

Is your business leaking money?

Think about it

How much is 3% of revenue worth to you?
Every week, every month, every year.
That's buckets of money!

Now you can plug the leak...

Here's how Translogix

Every day, your business generates an enormous amount of data which with Sapphire's help can streamline your processes, reduce error, identify trends, reduce costs, and improve customer service.

Automatic Pricing

Ensures that minimal effort is required to determine the price of a job, removes personal error ensures that all additional chargeable services are accurately and readily collected and combined. This means that you can accurately charge the customer for every service provided within the terms of the customer agreement. Sapphire generates proof of delivery notes, manifests and drivers job sheets and will also update your vehicle profitability records, automatically calculating your pricing and – when you are ready – producing invoices, transferring the details to the sales ledger and general ledger.

Job Tracking

This allows any user on the network to keep track of all jobs at any time, from the initial quotation to confirming the price of the job prior to invoicing. Because jobs entered into the system are automatically allocated a unique booking number and appear on the transport diary you can keep better control and avoid duplication. The system can generate any report you might need, such as drivers' job sheets, manifests, POD's, run sheet reports, or subcontractors payment advice (SPA's).

Sapphire can help you

Transport Invoicing

Once a job has been priced in the system, the Transport Invoicing module will collate jobs for each customer and produce an invoice. Invoices can be formatted to your specification and printed on plain, headed or pre-printed paper or even distributed by e-mail to your customers saving more time and money. Jobs can be seen on screen by invoice and even exploded into consignment details, making it quick and easy to respond to customer queries.

Business Integration

The Sapphire system is totally integrated across all modules providing a complete and comprehensive coverage of all aspects of the transport and logistics business. A data entry in one part of the system automatically updates all other relevant modules so you always have a current view of your business operation. It also integrates with mobile and internet applications providing further leading edge tools to improve productivity and customer service.

"No more revenue leakage due to uncharged invoices. With huge savings in critical business areas the Sapphire system has already paid for itself".
